

Where Are We?

These photographs, taken a fair while ago now, were taken on what is now the site of one of Phuket's well known landmarks.

But where, that is anyone's guess.

We will let you know next month and you may be surprised.

A hint on when these were taken is the bungalows behind were renting for thirty baht per night and had their own bathroom.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Sir / Madam,

The sign (above) on the Kata - Niharn road just past the view point lookout leads to a steep and torturous two kilometre track to the beach.

Be aware that the dirt road goes through private property before the beach and the people there want 250 baht per head to cross their property (something not pointed out at the top of the hill).

We arrived at 5 pm and they still requested the fee. There were four of us in a 4WD (1000 baht) and we were told we couldn't bring any food or drink (as they have a restaurant on site) and couldn't even look at the beach to see if it was worth staying.

June Roth - London

Ed: Further along is Niharn beach, a top spot and free to swim

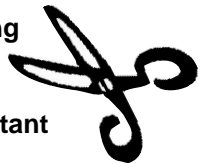

A Time for Everything

Haircuts on certain days signify different things.

Try the list below to see how your day at the hairdresser stacks up.

Sunday	Long Life
Monday	Happiness and Health
Tuesday	Power
Wednesday	Misfortune
Thursday	Protection of the Angels
Friday	Good Luck coming your way
Saturday	Success in important undertakings

POSITION VACANT

Thai national to assist with the marketing of the Andaman Post

Some English language skills required
Ability to work independently
Salary and commission depending on experience

Phone 06 151 1600 or Email: info@thainews.com.au
for further details.