

Getting Above It All

The helicam sends a continuous wireless video picture to the ground based mobile Heli Van.

The helicam photographer and the customer can view the aerial images in real time while quality photos are taken. Once the helicopter has landed high-resolution images are downloaded to the mobile editing suite and can be retouched and recorded directly onto CD at location. HeliCam provide customers with an aerial photography solution that is high quality, professional and cost effective.

The only alternative to this type of aerial photography would be to use a conventional manned helicopter and camera crew. For the majority of businesses this is both prohibitive in cost and due to coordination and planning, too time consuming. HeliCam offer their customers an Brothers Philip & Anthony Clark have started their unique business venture, HeliCam, on Phuket Island. Since operations began early this year interest in the service they provide is steadily escalating. The business is so distinctive since it is the first of its kind on Phuket.

It nearly didn't arrive on this island as they making plans to set up in the booming market of Dubai.

The company uses miniature remote controlled helicopters (camera platforms), which are fitted with the latest digital cameras, hence the name HeliCam (helicopter and camera).
