

Top: The wave on its way into Chalong Bay; Above Right: Although by the time it reached Chalong the wave was small, it still had quite some power behind it; Above Left: A couple of days later you wouldn't have thought anything had happened if you didn't know.

Above: The horizon has disappeared as this guy figures it is a good time to get to higher ground;
Below: Higher up he watches where he once stood be swamped.

Above: This car is swirling around as the sea retreats; Below: Two days later it lies 10 metres below on the rocks completely destroyed.

