

Songkran

Songkran has passed for another year and it was good to see most people approaching the time with suitable respect. Phuket reported no Songkran related deaths over the period, although one person sadly died after due to injuries received during the holiday.

The authorities requested, and received, the water festivities be restricted to one day and many were thankful for that.

There was an awesome amount of hardware out on the streets, and despite the ban on pump type water pistols, there wase plenty of weaponry that could still pack a punch. One thing I have never gotten used to and as I get older, never will, is the ice cold water that gets dropped on you when you least expect it.

For those who hid during the festivities, you missed out on a good day, but then you probably have seen it all before.

