

El Visa Run To Perth

With my annual visa due I decided that the easiest and cheapest way to do is to go to Perth, Western Australia.

I figured I could do the whole trip in one day and be back in Thailand within 24 hours.

So, here we go - as you all know I cannot fly unless I'm a little lubricated and relaxed. I achieved this by starting at 10.00am at Scotties Bar - flight to Singapore is 2.00pm - I feel good!!!

On the flight I got stuck into the Red Wine - Bugger!!! - Well, I arrived in Singapore and all's great. I have a 30-minute stop over - right - straight to the smoking room and a beer - problem!!! My bowels started saying they were controlling my body - Christ, its stage left and could see a toilet sign about 200 metres away.

By the time I got there my cheeks were solid and the agony was devastating - straight into the loo and ended up in the first which was a disabled one - didn't even have time to sit - It went everywhere (We get the idea, lets just say that it was a case of Dunny

Syndrome - Ed.) I must have said some bad words as the toilet attendant started knocking on the door. As the cleanup took time the result was no smoke or beer. As I came out of the toilet this attendant was rolling his eyes looking at the mess - just said sorry, accident.

The rest of the flight was OK, arrived on time - got to immigration and was pulled up - well I'm going to get frisked - so signed a form and they did it in public - released.

Next was to find some accommodation and thought the best guys to ask would be the taxi drivers. I explained that I only wanted a room for 4 hrs with a shower and I want it cheap.

Next, I asked where to get a beer - the only place open is the Casino - OK take me - there is a Holiday Inn there so thought it was prudent to book in - Yeah right, at 3,500 Baht I told the (not PC) receptionist to (expletive deleted) and went for a beer - Bugger me!! 450 Baht for a Pint - one only thanks.
