

Karting In Khorat

In late October several people from the Phuket karting community made the effort and travelled to Khorat to try their hand up against Thailand's best in a round of the Thailand National Go-Kart Championship Series.

Phil's Race Report

In the past I have had many successes in karting and other forms of motorsport in the UK. So when I was asked if I wanted to race against some of the top karters in Thailand, I said why not lets give a go although the equipment I was using is 10 years old. My first race was not good as I had no power from my engine, but managed to finish in 9th place. When we inspected the engine, we found that the piston was hitting the cylinder head. We quickly changed the engine, which Stefan lent me in time for the second race. I fought my way to finish in 5th place, but was disqualified due to a technical problem. So with a disappointing 2 heats, I had to start the final race from the back of the grid. I had a good start and was soon right behind 4th, 5th and 6th placed karts that were having a close battle. I could not find a way round them, and finished the race in 7th place overall but 5th in my class.

Willem's Race Report

Hello, I'm Willem from Holland. I'm quite new to karting, but I feel I was born to sit in one. The trip to the track was a long one, 12 hours, combined by plane, train and tuk tuk. The track itself was very challenging with a nice long straight and fast curves. One chicane with a big tree on the exit was pretty daring. Overall I am reasonably satisfied with
