To prove a point, Brian hops up on stage and gives a rousing rendition of Kingston Town with the band at the Port. It impressed the hell out of us.

Halfway through the season, Skylight are on top of the Patong Pool League. There are, however, several results still outstanding. For a list of which games, go to the Andaman Post website; www.andamanpost.com/Pool.html The results will affect the individual standings as can be seen on the list below.

After a recent trip to the Land of Smiles, our visitor returned to Ireland and started feeling a pain in his butt, as opposed to being a pain in the butt. He let it go for a little while but after it became a bit too sore he decided to head off to see a doctor. After the examination the doctor confirmed that there was something causing the pain and they would have to extract it.

feeling that should make diners very comfortable. It is called the Sawasdee Thai Seafood Restaurant and is at 8/5 Mae Luan Rd., in Phuket City. They open at 10am with breakfast and continue on throughout the day with Thai and Western food before winding up the evening with a bit of karaoke after 10pm.

A simple operation ensued with the doctor extracting the cause of our visitor's pain. The doctor looked at his patient very suspiciously as he held up the offending item which turned out to be a lady's fingernail. When the doctor asked how that could have lodged itself where it had, there was no response. It seems that some the ladies have a reach that goes far beyond the shores of this fair isle. And some can inflict pain half a world away.

A Legend is gone... Legends as we knew it is no more. The popular bar that has been running for over three years on Soi Eden in Patong has closed its doors. Well, it seems that with the recent land ownership change and subsequent rental increase the place became unviable. With the AFL and NRL finals coming up there looks like one less venue to see the games.

Ming has opened a new restaurant in Phuket City. She has another one called, appropriately enough, Ming's, in Patong on Rat-U-Thit Rd., roughly opposite the post office. She now has a partner 'Oo' for the Phuket City venture and on viewing the restaurant last week at the opening found that the premises exudes a cosy

The Aussie Bar has the best array of screens and will be packed as usual. If you're driving, you could try Montes in Patong. They have one big screen and plenty of parking behind the restaurant.
