

Opening night at Club 730

He then gave the snake to another customer after assuring him it was good to eat. Willing to give it a try the customer asked the restaurant if it could be left in their fridge until he was ready to take it home. They agreed and all was quiet for quite some time until a loud scream could be heard coming out of the kitchen.

On investigation staff found one of the cooks on the ground in shock. Apparently she had just started her shift and being oblivious to the earlier antics outside went and opened the fridge to be confronted by the sight of an 8-foot long, headless, skinless snake.
