

Something In The Air

It's amazing what a difference a few weeks make. Visitor numbers are definitely up around the island and with the amount of construction going on you cannot help but think we are living in boomtown Phuket. Some people have remarked about why do the authorities start doing upgrades around high season. well the short answer is, it isn't only high season, but year round.

After a quiet year, an interesting number of new entertainment and accommodation options have opened their doors recently.
